In preparing to meet the now-certain task of defending the Western Hemisphere the United States faces a twofold job — not only defending South America against military attack, but establishing business relations with South America which will assure us that she wants to be protected against attack. American citizens start off on this job with one handicap that should be remedied immediately, the disinclination to learn another language besides their own.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Asserting that it "seems certain" President Roosevelt had promised military aid to France, Senator Nye (R-ND) proposed in the senate Friday that the chief executive retire and turn over his office to Vice President Garner.

WASHINGTON—Congress members who have been demanding more aloofness from European affairs charged that a "war cabinet" was being created in Thursday's nomination of Republicans Henry L. Stimson and Frank Knox to the cabinet; but administration men issued denials and called the appointments a move to sink "partnership."

Mr. Roosevelt Thursday night issued a statement saying: "The appointments are in line with the overwhelming sentiment of the nation for national solidarity in time of world crisis and in behalf of national defense and nothing else."

Earlier, he said the defense program was "not aimed at intervention in world affairs which do not concern the Western Hemisphere."

1940 Poll Tax is Not Good for Vote

Applies to General
Election, But Not
Primaries

LITTLE ROCK—A poll tax receipt issued this year entitles the holder to vote in the general election in November, but is not good for the August 13 and 27 primaries, Attorney General Jack Holt advised J. D. Little of Opal, Polk county, Thursday. Act 82 of 1939 extended the poll tax payment deadline from June 15 to October 1. A receipt issued on or before October 1, 1939, entitles the holder to vote in the period from October 1, 1939, to October 1, 1940. A poll tax purchased between October 1, 1939, and October 1, 1940, is good from October 1, 1940 to October 1, 1941. Mr. Little wrote that his receipt stated it was good for "any election" prior to October 1, 1941, because it had been issued prior to October 1, 1940.

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—Major Basil E. Newton, 44, agent in charge of the U. S. Secret Service in Arkansas, and president of the Arkansas National Guard association, died suddenly at his home here Friday of a heart attack.

He is survived by his widow, two daughters, his parents, a brother and four sisters.

He was stricken as he prepared to leave his residence for the federal building. After going to his car he became ill and returned to the house to lay down. The fatal attack followed.

Major Newton was born in Sterling, Neb., July 1, 1896, and made his home at Hope many years before joining the Secret Service in 1934. He served as agent in Birmingham and Memphis, prior to taking charge of the Arkansas office here in 1937.

Hope Graduate
Major Newton was graduated from Hope High School in 1914, enlisted in the army and served four years with the 23rd infantry, seeing service on the Mexican border.

During the world war he attended the officers training camp at Camp Dix, N. J. and on June 1, 1937, was commissioned a second lieutenant, rejoined the 2nd infantry.

He subsequently became a first lieutenant, entering the Officers Reserve Corps in 1918. In January, 1921, he entered the Arkansas National Guard as captain of the 153rd infantry, and became a major in that

RIO DE JANEIRO—(AP)—The United States Cruiser Witechita arrived here Friday on a good visit, one of a number being made in South American waters by United States naval craft.

The destroyer O'Brien arrived at Buenos Aires, Thursday.

Montevideo Greeted U. S.
MONTVIDEO—(AP)—The United States cruiser Quincy arrived Thursday on a good visit and was greeted by cheering waterfront crowds as Uruguay clamped down on fifth-columnists.

Informed sources said Uruguay would support any mutual plan for American defense. Reaction was favorable to reports that the United States planned to take the lead in working out a program of unified naval and military preparedness.

Congress is expected to act Monday on a government committee disclosing evidence of a German plot to establish National Socialism in Uruguay. Nine German leaders were held without formal charges. The government probably will seek expulsion of Julio Dall'Oy, a leader of Nazi organizations whose appointment as press attache of the German legation was termed an attempt to give him diplomatic immunity.

Officers of the Quincy were received by President Baldomir, and members of the crew, given shore leave mingling with Montevideo crowds. The reception was enthusiastic, in contrast to the accorded Italian sailors who came ashore recently, and were egged by anti-Fascist demonstrators.

Monroe Doctrine Backed by U.S. But Hated by Europe

Doctrine Never Has Been Liked by Other Powers

STIFF U. S. FRONT

One by One, We Have Backed Off the Europeans

By MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
It was Bismarck who called the Monroe Doctrine "a species of arrogance peculiarly American."
The Kaiser was well known to hold the same opinion.
And Adolf Hitler despite of—or maybe because of—his "America for Americans" declaration is believed by Americans to go Bismarck and the Kaiser one better.

Text of the Monroe Doctrine was carried in President Monroe's annual message to congress Dec. 2, 1823. Significant passages are these:
"The occasion has been judged proper for asserting as a principle in which the rights and interests of the United States are involved, that the American continents, by the free and independent condition which they have assumed and maintain, are henceforth not to be considered as subjects for future colonization by any European powers. . . . We should consider any attempt on their part to extend their system as dangerous to our peace and safety. . . ."

That is the one big reason the United States matches German military triumph in Europe with moves toward a "cartel" of the 22 nations of the western hemisphere, including Canada, to control their vast food supplies and raw materials. . . . the reason strong support comes to the proposal that the U. S. take over allied American possessions and the reason the senate voted unanimously the legislation warning that the U. S. would not "acquiesce" in the transfer of western hemisphere colonies from one non-American nation to another.

Europe Never Liked Doctrine
From its proclamation in December, 1823, the Doctrine has never been popular with European countries. They have challenged its validity as international law. In two famous cases, France and Britain violated it and in both cases the United States was ready to go to war. Both France and Britain have respected the Doctrine ever since, but Germany has been consistently the most hostile to it.

During the Civil War, Emperor Napoleon III of France sent an army to troubled Mexico and planted the Austrian Archduke Maximilian upon a shaky Mexican throne. But when the war was over, the Union talked turkey to Napoleon. He hastily withdrew his army and left Maximilian to his fate.

In 1895 Venezuela and Britain were in a dispute about a boundary between Venezuela and British Guiana. Under President Cleveland Secretary of State Olney sent his message to England demanding arbitration.

There have been only three violations of the Monroe Doctrine to which the United States made no objection then or since:
1. The seizure of the Falkland Islands by Britain in 1833.
2. The extension by Britain to large territory of its colony of British Honduras in 1833.
3. The transfer of the island of St. Bartholomew from Sweden to France in 1877.

Germany was distinctly hostile to America during the war with Spain. The German Foreign Office figured a victory for America would strengthen the Doctrine. Further, America would fall heir to Spanish possessions in the New World.

Germany led the European big powers to send a note to America, seeking to prevent the war with Spain. The Germans wanted something

French Envoys Are Greeted by Hitler in Hour of Triumph

In Compiegne Forest, Scene of Allied Triumph in 1918, Germans Demand Record of That Defeat Be Erased

BERLIN—(AP)—Negotiations between French and German plenipotentiaries over the armistice are still going on at 7:50 o'clock Friday night, the official German news agency announced.

FIGHTING SLOWS DOWN
BORDEAUX—(AP)—Despite official declaration of French resistance, it is believed here Friday night fighting has slowed down generally.

By the Associated Press
Adolf Hitler crowned his hour of triumph by personally meeting France's peace-seeking envoys Friday in the shell-torn forest of Compiegne, scene of the signing of the World war armistice November 11, 1918.

The Nazi Fuehrer met the French plenipotentiaries in the same railway car in which Marshal Foch dictated the terms on which Kaiser Wilhelm's imperial armies laid down their arms.

Col. Gen. Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the Nazi high command, first read the preamble to the armistice conditions, with Hitler remaining silent nearby.

"Today's action in the forest of Compiegne has wiped out the wrongs done to German military power," said the official DNB news agency.

3 GERMAN DEMANDS

Three aims of the armistice terms were announced:

1. To prevent continuance of the war on France—apparently complete demilitarization of the French.
2. To obtain full guarantees "necessary for continuance of the war against Great Britain." This indicates French industries, materials and wealth will be taken over by Germany to fight England.
3. To produce "preconditions for a new European peace."

Immediately after the preamble was read, Hitler departed.

The preamble asserted that the Allies in the World war, supported by American troops, "did not successfully in any way conquer the German army, navy, or air force."

The French hoped for an interlude to lay terms before the government for final acceptance or refusal. The French have indicated they would fight on rather than yield to dishonorable demands.

Meanwhile the German military machine shoved deeper spearheads into France "on schedule," claiming the capture of two uncompleted French battleships at Brest, and other successes.

ITALIAN VIEW

ROME—(AP)—The United States "stirred by war gestures of many of their men and newspapers" do not "seem ready to let themselves be drawn into a European war which does not concern them" the Fascist editor Virginio Gaydo wrote Friday.

Where Kaiser Quit

BERLIN—(AP)—Adolf Hitler's terms for giving peace to France probably will be transmitted Friday at Compiegne, where stands the railway car in which the Kaiser's command surrendered to Marshal Foch in the armistice of 1918.

Over a nearby monument portraying Germany's eagle struck down by the French sword, the swastika waves and in these last days of defeat for France many a German soldier has gone there to look at the old "wagon lit," enclosed now in a special building.

In that car, at 11 on the morning of November 11, 1918, Maxime Weygand, the losing Allied generalissimo of this war, stood with Foch while the marshal signed with a German delegation a peace dictated on Allied terms.

On Friday, June 21, 1918, the German battle fleet was scuttled at Scapa Flow—one week before the signing of the employment services during the last six months of 1939.

Vocational guidance, provided by 306 cities in 47 states and the District of Columbia is largely responsible in helping many high school and college graduates find their first jobs and tackle them intelligently. Counsel is given to a portion of the 1,750,000 young persons who leave school and enter the labor market each year.
Those who register with their local public employment office before they go job-hunting may be given aptitude tests, if necessary, to determine what their most congenial occupation is.
The counselors examine their school records, instruct them in the best methods developed for getting jobs and keeping them. They are also contact men for employers and graduates, trying to interest employers in hiring promising but inexperienced youngsters.
If a young man wants to be an aviator, for example, but cannot pass the tests for flying cadets, he may want to do ground work, or aviation mechanics. If he does, the counselor will advise him in which kind of machine shop he can most profitably serve his apprenticeship.
Another of the counselor's jobs is to co-ordinate the work of schools with opportunities in the labor market by pointing out the kinds of vocational training which will be most helpful to the young job-seeker. Perhaps most helpful are the counselor's tips to the graduate on improving first impressions.

Don't say "Are there any jobs open here?"

Expert Sees Ancient Craft of Weaving Enjoying a Boom
By RUTH MILLETT
If you don't think weaving is glamorous, exciting, and can lead to a top-notch career, you haven't talked with Dorothy Wright Liebes, who makes her home in California when she isn't traveling all over the world to round up the work of artist craftsmen.
Miss Liebes says there is a great revival of weaving going on in the country, and gives WPA credit, because of the many classes it organizes throughout the nation.
Miss Liebes works hand in hand with architects and decorators, designing fabulous fabrics to be used in the homes of the wealthy and in public buildings where beauty is counted above expense.
The designs for fabrics are worked out by her first on paper, then transferred to a loom. The fabrics are then woven by hand by the loom girls, of them like Miss Liebes, graduates of the University of California who make up her staff of weavers.

At the present time her work can be seen at New York's Metropolitan Museum and at the World's Fair. Weaving is Easy to Learn Miss Liebes thinks hand weaving would make an enjoyable and worthwhile hobby for any woman. She points out:
"Weaving is a folk art—a home craft. We are likely to forget that our great grandmothers wove their linens. From them we inherited our love of textiles."

Origin of the Sandwich
In order that he might not lose time, the Earl of Sandwich, a great gambler of the 18th century, had food brought to the gambling tables. To do away with eating utensils, he had meat placed between slices of bread. Thus originated the sandwich.

Deserah Phinney was born for trouble, and her birthright haunted her through the pages of Margaret Shaw's melodramatic, historical novel, "Inherit the Earth" (Bobbs Merrill: $2.50). SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Distinction Often Blurred but There Is Difference Between Right, Wrong
Text: Malachi 3:7-18.

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D., Editor of Advance

How feebly, and with what difficulty, peoples and nations learn to profit by experience! The lessons that we have been studying have dealt chiefly with the Jews in exile in Babylon, and with their return from captivity to rebuild Jerusalem and their homeland. The period of the captivity was one in which spiritual vision and the sense of true values attained their very highest point.

In the loss of the things that they ought to have loved and cherished, the exiled people began to value these things at their true worth. A fervent spiritual patriotism arose among them, in which Jerusalem, "beautiful for situation," became something more than a city that they had lost. It became a symbol of spiritual life and happiness, and the poet, voicing the sentiment of his people expressed the wish that his right hand might forget her cunning if he preferred not Jerusalem among his chief joys.

In the days of rebuilding in their homeland, despite constant attack of enemies and great dangers and privations, there was the same high note of patriotic fervor. Under unselfish, courageous, and inspired leaders, the people, built with vision—although there were lapses at times, and we have seen how one prophet rebuked them for their lack of zeal in building the House of God in contrast with their eagerness to provide comfortable houses for themselves.

Yet, now 100 years after the return from the exile, we find the people profiting so little from the experiences through which they had passed that apostasy has arisen. The people have backslidden into carelessness, and selfish, and evil ways.

The depth of their failure is evident in the intensity of the words with which the prophet, Malachi, reproves them. They have turned from the laws of God; they have robbed God in not yielding the tithes and offerings for the service of religion and for the benefit of all. A curse rests upon the nation, and the curse will remain until there is a change in their ways.

And yet, a bountiful and merciful God is anxious to pour out His blessing upon the people. "Prove me now herewith," Malachi represents Jehovah as saying, "If I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it!"

Do not these words apply with equal vividness to our own time? It is only a few years ago since we here in America were in the depth of a terrible depression. A contrite spirit seemed evident in the nation. We were ready for almost any sacrifice or to adopt any measures if we could only get out of the slump that had affected almost everything in our lives.

Yet, how quickly we have forgotten all this in the measure of recovery that has come! Human nature is much the same in every age, but fortunately God's nature is also the same in every age. There is still hope for nations where nations will turn to righteousness and truth.

Our lesson also ends on a very hopeful and vital fact, namely, the eternal distinction between right and wrong. Often, in times of despair, the distinction seems blurred, but there is a real difference between righteousness and wickedness. The destiny of humanity for weal or woe is wrapped up with humanity's choice of the one or the other.

England because of his radical beliefs, Deserah followed him to the New World, and because she had no money for passage, voluntarily indentured herself as a servant for four years.

But there was no good fortune for her in the America of 1758. Sold as a maid to a Mr. Kane, a black-hearted New England trader, she endured his insults and the wrath of his drink-crazed wife. Four friends made her life bearable—Shenandoah, a mysterious, never completely explained pioneer settler; two Negro slaves, and David Blaikie. She loved David.

Tragedies came quickly for Deserah after David went to England. The slaves were sold. Mrs. Kane was murdered and Deserah forced to marry Kane to save her own life. Reliance came with Kane's death. When a mob threatened Deserah, Adam Blaikie, David's brother, married her. Deserah found happiness with Adam and their three children until the Revolution.

Adam was a Tory, loyal to England. Deserah, coached by Shenandoah and David, championed the colonial cause. Husband and wife were enemies. Adam and David were at odds, too, when David returned to support the rebels.

Love of husband was greater to Deserah than love of country and she followed Adam into exile in Nova Scotia, where his loyalty to the crown was repaid by a grant of a section of land. More hardships and tragedies were in store for Miss Shaw's heroine, and she buried her three children, frozen to death, on the grant.

The promise of final happiness and prosperity given in the introduction, is borne out only in the concluding pages of the novel.

SERIAL STORY
Ticket to Hollywood

BY W. H. PEARLS

CHAPTER V
Gusty really going to Hollywood? This question crashed through Francie's slumbers and sent her out into the pink, clear morning before Aunt Hat was awake.

She strolled along the boardwalk that led to the small restaurant connected with the cabin camp. Her appetite and her curiosity gnawed simultaneously, enormously.

As she entered the restaurant a familiar voice smote her ears. "Gusty!"

He stared at her. Francie, slim in blue slacks, with a cherry-red scarf over her amber hair, checked back. Color swept into her cheeks and her brown eyes flashed.

"Well, now, that's kind of you, Gusty," Mr. Weston said.

"You see, I thought maybe, if you don't need Francie to drive, she could ride with me today. We can meet you wherever you're going to sleep."

"It's agreeable with me," Mr. Weston said, "but at the moment the lady seems disinclined."

Francie driving her soon left Gusty's old roadster behind. In the back seat, Aunt Hat was curious about Gusty's presence.

"Francie, dear, have you any idea why the boy should be going to Hollywood?"

Francie pretended to be occupied with the road. "It—it's just one of his crazy ideas, Aunt Hat," Mr. Weston said. "It's more than that, if you ask me, Francie. The boy hasn't much money. He must be pretty sure that tickets on the level."

"But he hasn't—" Aunt Hat drifted into silence.

Francie could see her aunt's face in the rear view mirror. It was puckered with thought. "Tonight," she promised herself, "she would tell Aunt Hat the truth. But what if there was still a chance of getting the ticket from Gusty?"

"It was a wild, impossible idea, yet she couldn't rid herself of it."

They saw no more of Gusty until noon when he pulled alongside of them at a roadside barbecue. Gusty was accompanied by a shabby man whom he proudly introduced as "Blubber."

Blubber, a squat, broad individual with a butterfly complexion, had marble-round eyes that rolled shifty away from the directness of Mr. Weston's gaze.

Whiskers Won on Post War Tickets

Long Beards Were "Musts" for G.O.P. Tickets

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
AP Feature Service Writer

WASHINGTON — War service and whiskers virtually were "musts" for Republican presidential nominees in the post-Civil War period of prolonged G. O. P. supremacy.

From Grant to McKinley, inclusive, there was only one break in the parade of Union army officers as Republican standard bearers. The exception was James G. Blaine, and he lost.

And from Grant until McKinley, every Republican nominee sported a bushy beard. Vice President Chester Arthur, who stepped up when President Garfield was assassinated, had "beautiful sideburns."

In 1888, a Republican newspaper boasted that "no Democrats have yet been able to display more than a mustache."

War Heroes in Command
Republican campaigns of that era had a pronounced military-patriotic motif. War heroes presided and key-noted at conventions. Veterans with empty sleeves, denoting they had fought to "save the Union," had honored places on the platforms.

G. O. P. stars converged on Chicago in 1863 for their first post-war convention as the historic struggle of a Republican Congress to limit Andrew Johnson from the White House was coming to a close. Democrats en route to Chicago and the news by "trained lightning" (telegraph) that President Johnson had been acquitted by a one-vote margin. Republican senators who voted "not guilty" were denounced.

The selection of a candidate was a mere formality. The boom for Grant, idolized "captain of all the armies of the Union," swept the North. He had no opposition.

Grant Once a Democrat
The outlook for the Democrats was hopeless. They had tried earlier to get Grant, who before the war was a Democrat as their candidate. (The general did not cast a Republican ballot until he had been President eight years.)

The Democrats met in the new Tammany wigwam in New York. A bust of Washington looked down upon a picturesque gathering of broad-brimmed Kentuckians, gray-coated Alabamians, long-haired Carolinians, hirsute Arkansians, and boisterous Oregonians.

The convention opened on the Fourth of July with the keynote declaring "We come to celebrate not only the independence of this nation but also the burial of Negro rule and radical democracy." Governor Hoar of the 22nd Maine was nominated as the Republican candidate.

Scandals broke out in Grant's second administration. Reform Republicans joined Democrats in attacking "corrupt bargain" rule. "Come 1876, centennial of American independence, and Republicans met in barn-like Cincinnati hall."

Hayes a Dark Horse
James G. Blaine, the plumed knight, was the leading candidate but his old enemy Roscoe Conkling of New York and other Republican leaders combined to block his nomination. The party turned to dark-horse Rutherford B. Hayes of Ohio. And again a bearded war veteran carried the G. O. P. standard to victory this time by an eye-lash in the famous Hayes-Tilden contest which the Democrats accused the Republicans of stealing.

NEXT — Bryan sets the practice afire.

But if an infant does not take up K normally, the deficiency can be remedied by administering cod liver oil. Dr. L. B. Shetler, who found whether Vitamin K was present in a mother's milk, the deficiency of her child would prevent the child from developing in the normal way. This he proved in a limited series of cases.

Week after week, the supply stood at the entrance of the "K" line maternity ward, arbitrarily giving every other mother 1715,000 of an ounce of a synthetic K concentrate in globules of corn oil, about as big as a pea. Two made a dose.

The Doctor's Report
Up to May 1, 1940, two big groups, 384 with Vitamin K, 332 without, had been studied; the deaths, autopsies and the results tabulated. The ratio of deaths at that time was almost three to one, three non-K babies to every one K baby.

Reporting to the gynecological society, Dr. Eastman says: "The stillbirth and neonatal (first week of life) mortality figures are as follows: Control series (non-K) group, 16 deaths, or 4.1 per cent mortality; Vitamin K series, 6 deaths, or 1.5 per cent mortality."

"Hemorrhage was demonstrable in autopsy in but one of the six fatal cases in the Vitamin K group. In the control group (non-K), hemorrhage into one or another organ was demonstrable in nine of the 16 autopsies, or in 56 per cent."

Dr. Hellman cautions against expecting results in severe hemorrhages. "I don't think the tentative result ought to be overestimated," he says. "When applied to the census birth figures, the results in these 776 cases would indicate that five-eighths of the 127,000 neonatal deaths annually—about 80,000—might be saved in the future."

"But all babies are not born under hospital conditions, and there is an infinitesimal chance of a sampling error. It would be wiser to assume a Vitamin K life-saving potential of a little less than half, say 30,000 lives at least until we have several thousand cases in our series and other institutions have concurred."

For himself, Dr. Hellman makes no claims. The pioneers in Vitamin K investigation all over the world get the credit, he says. "He wouldn't have been able to proceed without the work of his associate, Dr. L. B. Shetler, who mastered the delicate Smith prothrombin test to measure the clotting power of blood."

K Discovered in 1929
Vitamin K was discovered by Dr. Henrik Dam in the University of Copenhagen in 1929. In 1935-36, Dr. H. J. Almqvist of the University of California and Dr. Dam first extracted Vitamin K from rotting fish meal and alfalfa which stopped spontaneous hemorrhages in diet-deficient animals.

Drs. E. A. Osby and L. F. Fieser of St. Louis University and Harvard first announced the chemical formula for pure Vitamin K, almost simultaneously last summer, working independently of each other. But it was costly to make.

Later, last year, Dr. Stefan Ambacher experimented with the little known but cheap chemical discovered and shelved as useless in 1921—2-methyl-1,4-naphthoquinone.

That's the material being released by the pure food and drug administration for the general use of physicians.

Nationally known scientists remind you K is not a cure-all for bleeding and won't stop massive hemorrhages. It does not cure hemophilia. Neither will it prevent hemorrhages of a mother in child birth, for such hemorrhages are not due to a deficiency of K.

There are approximately 3,000,000 automobile radios in use in the United States.

Whips Godoy in Eighth Round

Was Eleventh Challenger Defeated

NEW YORK (AP)—Punching in his technical and powerful style, Joe Louis successfully defended his world heavyweight boxing championship by scoring a technical knockout in the eighth round over Arturo Godoy of Chile before a crowd estimated at 30,000 in the Yankee Stadium Thursday night.

It was a different Louis from the one who was forced 15 rounds by the same Godoy last February. Slugging the South American all over the ring with his right hand, the Detroit negro fighter with his Sunday socks on his right leg, with blood flowing from his nose and after being knocked twice, a groggy Godoy was led to his corner by Referee Billy Cavanagh. The time was one minute and 20 seconds.

This was the eleventh challenger Louis has defeated. The best record of any previous champion was to hold his title against five challenges.

Monroe Doctrine

like direct intervention but France and England would not agree.

Having been thwarted in his hope to get the Philippine Islands, because the United States took them over, and also disappointed in his hope to purchase Pacific Ocean islands which Spain had once owned, the German kaiser was constantly rumored aiming at getting naval and coaling bases in Cuba and purchasing islands in the West Indies, a threat to the Panama Canal.

The famous Platt Amendment to the army bill in March, 1901, was an answer. The principal clause was that Cuba was not to permit any foreign power to secure partial or complete control of the island. The next move came in 1902 when the United States arranged to purchase the Danish West Indies. The plan was defeated by the Danish parliament—probably under German pressure.

In 1903 Germany, Britain and Italy, having financial claims against Venezuela, blockaded Venezuelan ports without protest from America. The Germans sunk two Venezuelan gunboats, bombed a port and destroyed a village. American opinion flared.

Germany soon decided to let the problem go to arbitration. In 1904 the financial affairs of the island republic of San Domingo were in a snarl. Rumor came to Washington that Dominican politicians wanted Germany to take control. Germany was more than willing. But President Theodore Roosevelt saw that Germany was not allowed to go into Domingo. American marines did the job.

The last brush with Germany came with the outbreak of the World War. It was feared Germany might buy out Denmark the Virgin Islands. Secretary of State Lansing informed the Danish minister in Washington that if German control of the islands seemed imminent America would seize them. Finally, in 1916, America bought them.

Fists in Flatbush as the St. Louis Cardinals and the Dodgers pause to mix it up in the third inning of their game in Brooklyn, Manager "Lippy" Durocher, in light uniform with arm around a Card player's neck, and Micky Owen of the Cards reportedly started the latest chapter in the feud which broke water with the benning of Joe Medwick with a pitched ball. Pepper Martin, vigorous Gashouser, is number 1.

French Downfall May Prove Boon to Republicans

WASHINGTON — Viewing it strictly from a short-range, cold-blooded political standpoint, the downfall of France may prove to be the best news the Republicans have had all year. It may completely change the circumstances and atmosphere of the presidential race. Republicans who ten days ago were privately admitting FDR was likely to get his third term are beginning to suspect the tide is going to run the other way from now on.

They figure it like this: the country was sold on a help-the-allies program, which was FDR's baby from the start. The worse the war got, the better his political prospects looked. But suppose the war ends; suppose it ceases to be a case of help the allies and becomes one of facing Hitler all alone, on a put-up-or-shut-up basis. Then it can be argued that FDR went too far and got the country out on a limb, and the natural let-down of emotion is likely to take an awful bite out of his popularity.

In any case, the campaign now seems due to be much hotter and livelier than it was to be a week or so ago.

Larger Cruisers Planned by Navy

You don't need to read far between the lines of the newest naval authorization bill to discover that the U. S. Navy has devised an entirely new type of cruiser. The new Vinson bill calls for 12 cruisers totaling 198,000 tons; do a little division, and you'll find that works out to 16,500 tons per cruiser—more than half again as large as any cruisers now in the American navy.

Putting those extra tons on a cruiser means you can give it more of everything—speed, cruising range, hitting power and armor.

Incidentally, there may be an attempt to expand this bill enormously when it comes to the floor of the House. An important group of air-minded naval officers feels that the three aircraft carriers the bill would provide won't scratch the surface of the navy's needs. In private, some of these men are talking about a tremendous fleet of carriers—50, at the very least, with 100 as a more desirable limit.

Such a fleet could carry 10,000 fighting planes. According to the air enthusiasts, it could blitzkrieg anything afloat or on the seacoast. Of course, it would cost a staggering sum; equally, of course, most admirals are likely to feel that three new carriers will be a great plenty.

Filibuster May Block Early Adjournment

Despite the denials from London, the administration here is deeply concerned (and not a little pessimistic) over the chance that England may presently make peace with Hitler. As one political-co-strategist puts it: "If our political-co-strategist puts it: 'Look at the map of Europe—German from the tip of Spain to the top of Norway. What can England do but surrender?'"

One of the things which is causing administration leaders to hedge, on their adjournment-before-the-conventions stand is the fact that certain senators opposed to adjournment have threatened to filibuster the new tax bill to death unless the leadership agrees to extend the session indefinitely. They feel deeply enough about it to carry out the threat—and with only a few days to go, the trick would be easy.

Appointment of week's Republican national convention, Chairman John D. M. Hamilton issued a statement virtually reading the two appointees out of any position of leadership in the Republican party. Former President Hoover expressed belief that the 1940 campaign would be unaffected because "national issues remain exactly where they were."

Republicans gathered in groups in the house corridors and cloakrooms, expressing bitter condemnation of Stimson and Knox. Some Democrats joshed them with gibes that the appointments meant "liquidation of the Republican party."

There was excitement in the Senate when the Stimson and Knox nominations were read.

Senator King (Dem., Ut.) expressed "the hope that there will be prompt action on these able and illustrious men and that they will be approved."

War Party

Senator Clark of Missouri said appointment of "interventionists" amounted to "selection of a war cabinet."

"I cannot vote to make the Democratic party a war party, and I will not follow the Democratic party as a war party," he said.

Senator Holt (Dem., W. Va.) said he had read three weeks ago that there was "pressure" from London to get Harry Woodring, who resigned as secretary of war Thursday, out of the cabinet.

Holt said Woodring tried to do everything within the law to aid the Allies, but to look out for the United States first, while his successor's policy was "to do anything to the allies that is necessary and America be damned."

When Holt charged that "there have been commitments made for our involvement in war," Senator Byrnes (Dem., S. C.) replied: "If Mr. Stimson or Colonel Knox have made any commitments that is a matter that would be susceptible of proof. I have no idea that the senator's information is correct."

Senator Wheeler (Dem., Mont.) declared that "it is with a heavy heart I see the drift of events." He said he had hoped that the Democratic party would be the "liberal party and the peace party" and that it would not pound and drive the people by hysteria.

Senator Barkley replied: "I do not believe the appointments indicate that the Democratic party has turned its back on liberalism. I do not believe they indicate we are headed toward war. The outstanding significance is that the president recognizes that in this hour partisanship ought to be abandoned so far as it may be."

Senator Maloney (Dem., Ct.) said a man was "entitled to serve" whether he was a "liberal or conservative."

"We are tearing ourselves apart when the crying need of the hour is national unity," he said.

Advocates Of Aid to Allies

Knox, 66, succeeds Charles Edison, who has resigned as secretary of the navy, to run as Democratic nominee for the governorship of New Jersey. Publisher of the Chicago Daily News, Knox was a Rough Rider under Theodore Roosevelt, a World War artillery colonel, and recently has been active in promoting plans for "aviation Flatbush" to train 50,000 men in one year as pilots for the projected air armada.

He has urged that the United States furnish the Allies with everything short of soldiers and that as "trustees for the Western world, it take over French possessions in this hemisphere and set up a government for them to include representatives of other American nations. He has resigned as delegate to the Republican National Convention.

Stimson, 73, was secretary of war under President Taft, and secretary of state under President Hoover. During the World War he also was an

An Ancient Custom

A vial taken from a 2,000-year-old tomb near the city of Luxenburg contained human tears, according to chemical analysis. Tears once were buried with the dead as a romantic expression of sympathy.

No Isolation for U.S. Possible—Hull

But Harvard, Hearing Address, Remains Pacifist

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., (P)—Declaring that a "menacing shadow falls blacker and blacker" on this continent, Secretary of State Hull said Thursday that it was "folly" to believe isolation could preserve American achievements.

He addressed an alumni gathering at Harvard University's 289th commencement.

"Nation after nation," he said, "has been crushed into surrender, overrun and enslaved by the exercise of brute force combined with fraud and guile."

Naming the oppressor only as "the massed forces of lust for tyrannical power," the secretary said that "as the dismal darkness descends upon more and more of the earth's surface, as its menacing shadow falls blacker and blacker athwart our continent,

Traveler Players Are Badly Injured

Tyack Breaks an Arm and Rensa Loses Fingernail

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. — Little Rock's Travelers suffered their most gloomy day of the season as they lost a 6-to-2 decision to the Chattanooga Lookouts here Thursday afternoon.

Also the Travelers lost the services of two of their main cogs—Outfielder Jim Tyack and Catcher Tony Rensa. Tyack suffered a broken arm and a fingernail was torn from the throwing hand of Rensa.

Tyack's injury occurred in the second inning. Trying to reach second to beat an attempted double play, Jim collided with Shortstop McDaniel, who was shaken up but escaped unhurt.

Rensa was injured in the fourth inning.

Local Mattress Program Succeeds

3,000 Applications Approved by AAA Committee

The mattress program for Hempstead county, according to Miss Mary Claude Fletcher, home demonstration agent, is developing in a fine manner. To date over 3,000 applications have been approved by the AAA County Committee for making one cotton mattress for over 3,000 farm families in Hempstead county. To date 324 mattresses have been made in 13 communities.

Two leadership meetings have been planned to train local leaders in the county so that quality mattresses can be made at the community demonstration. Friday, June 21, a leadership meeting will be held at the old State Capitol building at Washington. Two mattresses will be made complete so that the leaders attending can go back to their community and carry on quality community demonstrations. Another leadership meeting will be held Saturday, June 22, in the WPA sewing room, located back of the new courthouse in Hope. Home management leaders, clothing leaders, household art leaders, club presidents, and mattress chairmen from all communities can go to either of these meetings.

The following schedule will be carried out in making mattresses the next week.

Monday, June 24—Liberty Hill and Cranck's School House.

Tuesday, June 25, McNab and Church Hill.

Wednesday, June 26, Washington.

Thursday, July 2, McCaskill and Redland.

Wednesday, July 10, Ozan.

The time for taking mattress applications has been extended through June 29. Any bonafide farm family over the county making an income of $400 cash income or less in 1939 and who made half of this income from the farm can take advantage of this program if they have not already done so. This is the last day. The time will not be extended any longer.
